

Are you concerned about the health of coral on Kaua'i's north shore?

Recent reports of an outbreak of coral mortality along Kaua'i's north shore (specifically at 'Anini and Makua), have raised concerns in our community. For a better understanding of the science behind these reports, Mayor Bernard Carvalho invites you to join experts from the University of Hawai'i for a briefing:

Thursday, December 13, 2013

4:00 pm – 5:00 pm

Hale Halawai 'Ohana O Hanalei

Presenters include Dr. Greta Aeby, Assistant Researcher for the Hawai'i Institute of Marine Biology, and Sean Callahan, Professor, Department of Microbiology.

Immediately following the briefing, you may choose to attend a Hanalei Watershed Hui presentation on pollution control strategies, evaluation and monitoring protocols and education and outreach approaches for the Watershed Management Plan. The 5:00 pm presentation will focus on specific management practices to reduce or prevent nonpoint source pollution.

Sponsored by the County of Kaua'i, Office of the Mayor
